and secret encouragement that hospitality could offer was liberally given to add eclat to the different entertainments of the day. Upon entering the Show Room, which was crowded to excess, we found the first, as it was soon crowded to excess, we found the first, as it was soon crowded to excess, with all the articles exhibited, as well as with the excellent dinner produced by the whole arrangement, and imposing effect of the illumination in pronouncing that it was decidedly superior to any we believe witnessed in the same department, and such as could not be easily surpassed in any other—and such as could not be easily surpassed in any other—The plate, grapes, nectarines, peaches, figs, &c. furnished by the different public spirited contributors, showed that they had been cultivated with the utmost care. Among the fruit we noticed the names of Sir William Folkes, Bart. Thomas Allen, Esq. Thomas Bagge, Esq. Hardy Richards, Esq. Mr. Stylemain, Thomas Gurney, Esq. Mr. Flanaghan, &c. &c. Mr. Stylemain, Thomas Gurney, Esq. Mr. Flanaghan, &c. &c. exhibited upon placards, devised the success with which exhibited upon placards, devised the success with which exhibited upon placards, devised the success with which
